Abstract. In the article, it is explained that the attention paid to young people is of special importance in the development of the new Uzbekistan, that improving and increasing the active citizenship position of young people is one of the main conditions of a strong civil society.

Keywords: Fuqmiddle position, well-being, education, family, human values, social environment.

The locomotive, driving force and future of any country is the attention given to the youth of that country.

The majority of the people of Uzbekistan are young people. The future, development and well-being of our country depends on the education and maturity of the youth.

Improving the active citizenship position of young people is not only the task of the head of state and/or civil servants, but also the task of all citizens in society who are responsible for the education of young people.

Of course, attention to young people is becoming the main task of the family, and also of the whole society. Young people who are maturing in the spirit of national and universal human values can be entrusted with any responsible task. Today, there are many young people in our country who are serving as an example to their peers and who are contributing to the promotion of Uzbekistan to the world.

There are also those among us who waste their precious time in fruitless activities or straying into wrong ways. An important and important aspect of the matter is that, first of all, it is necessary to guide the youth who are spending their free time unproductively, to the right path, to instill confidence in their abilities and capabilities, to give them independent thinking, It is important to have a civic position, to develop the skills to demonstrate an active civic position. There are a number of factors for the implementation of such a task, which include:

First of all, the social environment in the family. A parent's influence on their child is a well-directed education. In this, first of all, parents themselves play an important role as a personal example and role model. From a young age, the child is encouraged to think freely, to books, to a certain subject and or kaFirst of all, parents are responsible for arousing interest in sb-crafts, realizing their child's talent early and directing it correctly. This situation has a great impact on increasing the child's self-confidence.

Secondly , it depends on the correct implementation of the educational and educational work carried out by educators and teachers with children in preschool and school educational institutions. Organization of education, taking into account the mentality, abilities and individual characteristics of the child, requires great skill from any trainer, pedagogue. If the teachers-coaches realize the abilities, talents and interests of the child in time and influence their development, such young people will grow up to be well-rounded people in the future.

Activities on various spiritual, educational, political topics organized in educational institutions serve to increase the activity of young people;

Thirdly the other hand, various forms of activities conducted by neighborhood activists with young people. In particular, events such as «Young Reader», «Young Sportsman», «Young Nature Lover», «Obod Mahalla» held in the neighborhoods, contests and competitions among families, «My child is proud», «Champion child» «, «Craftsman child» and other similar topics, the organization of conversations, spiritual and educational events increases the interest of young people to find their place in society;

Fourthly, the activities of public organizations, non-governmental and non-profit organizations, and political parties with young people are also an important factor in improving the active citizenship position of young people. Today, a number of organizations that pay great attention to expanding their ranks with young people have their own social networks, through which they call young people to be active. It can be said that the Youth Parliament and the Youth Agency are setting an example in this regard.

Fifthly, it is necessary to further improve programs and broadcasts that encourage youth to be active through mass media. Today, the mass media are lagging behind in this matter. However, the mass media play a big role in improving the active citizenship position of young people. However, this opportunity is not being used enough. There is an increasing number of very shallow, domestic, hospitality and cooking shows. This, in turn, bores young people and increases their dependence on the Internet. We cannot say that all young people using the Internet are on the right path. Of course, there are many of our young people who use it effectively. However, young people who lose their way through the Internet and fall under the influence of foreign ideas,

In other words, in improving the active citizenship position of young people, family, neighborhood, educational institutions, public formations, political institutions, youth organizations, mass media and their cooperative activities are important factors.

Improving the active citizenship position in young people - every child should know and appreciate the history, spiritual values, opportunities and prospects of our country, be proud of it, feel a concern for the peace of the country, the development of the country and the well-being of the people, together with their right it means to know one's duties and responsibilities and to fully implement them, to cultivate the qualities of being able to protect national interests in any case. Uzbeks have long been distinguished from other peoples by their honesty and humanity standing Honoring parents, the elderly, the sick and the needy, so to speak concepts such as showing respect and kindness, taking care of running water, the environment, high-level trade culture, and the combination of religious and secular knowledge are evidence of a high level of culture. «Honesty is sold - dead,» wrote J. Sand.

The concept of loyalty is an integral part of human culture.

Alisher Navoi's «Sher and Durroj» We all read the poem about him in elementary school. It seems a pity that today so many of our countrymen are like that liar. Contrary to our national values and interests, it has become common to lie even to parents. The life of a lie is short, our people say. It is not surprising that today lying has increased a lot in mutual conversations, especially in family relationships, and we should be worried that the value of words has decreased.

When we do not carry out activities that answer the question, «Isn't it time to promote giving up as soon as possible the defect of lying, which is contrary to our national traditions and is a source of our national pride, our national pride and cultural- we cannot say that we preserve our national values.

In other words, in cooperation with the State Television and Radio Company of Uzbekistan, the Center for Spirituality and Enlightenment of the Republic and other public organizations, «the value of the word», «the word of mouth», «the unity of words and work», «the word of mouth - The organization of roundtable discussions, live dialogues, impressive shows and broadcasts on topics such as «symbol of courage» is of great importance in educating the young generation with an active civic position. After all, as President Shavkat Mirziyoyev noted: «We need to pay more attention to the vital problems of our youth, to increase the number of modern jobs suitable for them, to support their noble aspirations and initiatives, and innovative ideas. , the improvement of the social and household conditions of our young generation will continue to be the most important of all levels of government agencies,
